

WESTERLY

The new Westerly town council is now in the managerial harness, all the members pulling together, and the many alleged short-comings of previous councils will be aired and then shelved for at least two years, or during the life of the present council. From present indications the airing process has been completed and in air that had evidently been super-heated. The only change thus far made by the new council, is the refusal to reappoint Senator Maurice W. Flynn, superintendent of motor vehicles at salary of $200 a year. Instead the council forced the appointment upon Police Chief Thomas E. Brown and cut the salary to $100, thereby saving an expense of $100 to the town. The new council, however, has accomplished the purpose for which it was elected an anti-republican ticket in an overwhelmingly republican town. Now the town affairs will be conducted in a peaceful, quiet and orderly way, just as has prevailed since the incorporation of the town more than two hundred and fifty years ago.

Westerly is preparing for emergencies. A detention room for women and another for juveniles have been added to the police department equipment. These rooms are more pretentious and comfortable than those connected with the police departments of big cities which are used almost daily. The Westerly detention rooms have not been occupied since their construction.

A modern $10,000 ambulance is also a recent valuable and important acquisition to Westerly. It may not be used very often, but when it is wanted there is a pressing emergency, and the emergency can be met. Westerly has a fine ambulance and now all that is needed to make the service complete is a hospital. There is a substantial nucleus for hospital fund and perhaps the needed institution may be built and fully equipped before new tires are required for the ambulance.

The money for the purchase was raised by popular subscription, the campaign being conducted by the Westerly Sanitary corps which did such effective and meritorious work during the influenza epidemic, in the conduct of a temporary hospital and ambulance service. The need of a real ambulance was fully demonstrated during that trying period. But for the Westerly Sanitary Corps, Westerly would have no ambulance now, and it was because of false modesty on the part of that splendid organization, that the ambulance does not bear the name. The only designation on the ambulance is a red cross on either side and even the word Westerly does not appear.

It has been suggested that the contributors meet and decide upon a plan for the use and maintenance of the ambulance. At present the sanitary corps is in charge, but is willing to yield the management to others should the contributors so decide.

Judge Edward M. Burke held a session of the Westerly probate court on Tuesday afternoon. The will of Lydia A. Kenneth, who died November 26, 1919, was admitted to probate. The sum of $1500 was bequeathed to her brother, Van R. Saunders, and his wife Clara, and upon their death the balance to go to Gertrude Saunders. To Catherine Denison, $500; to Gertrude Saunders, $200; Walter S. Saunders, $50; Sylvia Champlin, $100. Her brother Van R. Saunders, is given life use of the real estate, and upon his death, all real estate goes in equal parts to Albert T. Henry Alexander and William D. Kenneth. The rest and residue of the estate is bequeathed to Van R. Saunders and "shall be predeceased" to Gertrude Saunders. The Industrial Trust company was confirmed as executor of the estate. Bond $5000. Eugene B. Pendleton was appointed appraiser.

The will of Everett R. Burdick, who died October 6, 1919, was admitted to probate. All real and personal estate is bequeathed to wife of testator, Ada Cavitt Burdick, who was confirmed as executrix. Bond $500. Eugene B. Pendleton, appraiser.

The first and final account of the administratrix of the estate of James M. Crowley, was received, examined and approved for record, a balance of $899.72.

In the estate of Rebecca H. Hagan, the sum of $72 was allowed for perpetual care of cemetery lot $75 for new lot and transfer of body with $100 fee for administrator and $160 for monument, closed the account.

A hearing was held on the report of M. Walter Flynn's report as commissioner on the estate of Pasquale Gentile. There was one claim in dispute, and an agreement of settlement was reached. The report did not include all the accounts, but the ordinary disallowed claims that were referred to the commissioner. The sum of $72 was allowed for services of the commission and expenses of $7.15. The report was continued to the next session of the court, so that all claims allowed and disallowed be included in the report.

The administration account of the estate of Sidney Wilson was received and allowed. Showing a balance of $723.34, which was divided between two heirs—Emma Wilson and guardian of estate of Maria Wilson Coon.

Inventory was received and recorded in the estate of Maria E. Coon, showing a value of $132.31; estate of John Jenkin's $35; estate of Charles W. Austin $153.7.

The first and final account of the executor of the estate of David L. Molaren was received, and ordered recorded.

The Washington Trust company was appointed administrator of the estate of Patrick H. Dally. Bond $500. Eugene B. Pendleton is appraiser.

STONINGTON

Pendleton Brothers, Incorporated, and Deputy Sheriff William H. Casey have been restrained by a temporary injunction obtained by the Ship Construction and Trading company from replevying the marine railways at the Stonington shipyard. Pendleton Brothers claim they purchased the railways from the Emergency Fleet corporation and proposed to remove them to Mystic. The Ship Construction and Trading company, owners of the yard, which was taken over for a time by the Emergency Fleet corporation, claim ownership of the ways and that if the Emergency Fleet corporation made sale to the Pendleton Brothers the sale was illegal, as that corporation was not the rightful owner. The case is returnable to the superior court for New London county on the first Tuesday in January.

COULD THERE BE A BETTER GIFT

Fred Smith who works on the coal wagon in New London and lives on the R. E. D. said:

"I had such a pain in my back that I could not work. I hadn't been able to do a thing for a week because my back was so lame. The doctors called it lumbago, but whatever it was it weakened me so I wasn't able to earn a cent and that's pretty bad these times. I felt I just couldn't lag around any longer so when I heard of Goldine I got a bottle to try it, and before that first bottle was gone I was back on the job again and feeling fine. I want to say right here that Goldine is good enough for me when it will do that and am glad to recommend it."

FRED SMITH

If you have friends who are suffering don't you think it would be a wise gift to give them a bottle of Goldine? You think this strange, don't you. ## Shakespeare's "Seven ages of man" pay tribute to Horlick's Malted Milk

From across every sea and land have come thousands of grateful letters to the Horlick offices, paying tribute to Horlick's Malted Milk. Mothers of contented babies, soldiers after a campaign, explorers back from the ice fields, high tension business and professional workers, invalids and the aged—all tell of the different needs that Horlick's has filled.

Horlick's has proved itself to be the ideal food for every age of Shakespeare's Seven. It is so complete in itself as to contain every element of nutrition necessary to sustain life—even of the most robust—and yet it is readily digestible by the delicate stomach of the infant and the invalid.

3d Age. "Then the soldier seeking reputation at the cannon's mouth"

"Clara Barton of the Red Cross in her stories of the Spanish-American War tells how Colonel Roosevelt asked the Red Cross to sell him some supplies for some sick men in his regiment, but she declined. 'We cannot sell them, but you can have them for asking.' 'Oh, then I do ask for them.' 'All right, what is on your list?' The list was Horlick's Malted Milk, etc. Colonel Roosevelt slung the heavy sack over his shoulder, and trudged off through the jungle."

4th Age. "And then the lover with his ballad"

"Horlick's growth as a fountain favorite has been marvelous. A constant stream of young couples in the afternoon and evening call for Horlick's Malted Milk, chocolate or plain. 'Horlick's' is a favorite lunch hour drink around universities with students. A glass making a meal, they find it very economical and healthful."

6th Age. "The sixth age with spectacles on nose"

"I am 60 years old, and consider it a fortunate day when a friend induced me to try a cup of Horlick's Malted Milk. I use it with benefit, and pleasure two or three times a day. It is delicious and has done me a world of good."

7th Age. "Last scene of all that ends this eventful history"

"I could not do without it. It surely is a sleep producer and I am a nervous person, but Horlick's Malted Milk has helped me greatly. I have learned by experience that 'Horlick's' is as excellent for well people as for invalids."

In these interesting extracts from letters to us the story is told:

1st Age. "First the infant in the nurse's arms"

"Words fail to express how grateful I am to Horlick's Malted Milk. My babe was given up at birth, and the doctors said it would not live through the night. But the next morning it still lived, and while we anxiously watched it, a neighbor persuaded us to try 'Horlick's.' It was like putting oil on the wick of a dying lamp; she improved rapidly, and is now the joy of the house."

2d Age. "Then the school boy with his shining morning face"

"I raised five children on 'Horlick's,' and they all love it still. It can't be beat as a nutritious lunch between meals for a growing boy or girl."

5th Age. "And then the justice full of wise saws"

"When I used an invigorator as the result of my weak I drank a cup of Horlick's. I have used it constantly for several years, and find it cannot be beat for weak stomach, as a diet. In fact, it is all that is claimed for it."
